

EDUCO2CEAN in Caretakers of the Environment International (CEI) Global Forum

CEI is an independent organization established in 1986, embracing secondary school students, teachers and mentors, whose interests are focused specifically on the issues of environmental protection, promoting education, shaping awareness and training within sustainable development. Every year an international conference for youngsters and teachers is organized in a different country of the network. In 2017, the conference was in Oregon (USA), and in the report of the conference, ASPEA had the opportunity of disseminating the European EDUCO2CEAN Project.

Link to the Global Forum, page 40:

<https://www.caretakers4all.org/public/upload/forums/v28nr1-2017.pdf>

B) EDUCO2CEAN – is the name of an Erasmus + project on the theme of the Oceans, coordinated by ASPEA. Besides Portugal, CEI/Poland, Spain and the UK are part of the partnership. Past May the partners met in Edinburgh and it was interesting to see Tony Salamon, and reckon that CEI members can cooperate in other international projects and jointly work in Educo2ceans in order to create a meeting point for students, educators and stakeholders about biodiversity and conservation of the marine environment, educational material available on-line specifically for this purpose in e-book format and other multimedia tools such as blogs and forums for videos, to enable the encounter, communication and exchange of ideas between the educational communities of different European countries.

A clean-up activity on the beach